Artspace Warehouse: The “Axis of Contemporary Art” between Köln, Zürich and Los Angeles

I love this place – but then again, I LOVE the Weisman Museum, and some tell me I’m crazy because of that... “Modern Art is just a bit of color on a canvas, a couple of paint specks, and there...” “I can do that”... yeah, right...

I thoroughly enjoyed browsing through this newest addition to the vibrant Euro-LA Gallery Scene, where young, upcoming Starving Artists from Germany and Switzerland are shown alongside Angeleno “Greats” – creating a cultural bridge and "Axis of Contemporary Art" between Köln, Zürich and Los Angeles.

There is Art for every pocketbook – that's what I genuinely LOVE about this place. There's room for the Elite Galleries, but Art lovers who don't have gagillions to spend would really enjoy owning some cool stuff at a price where they don't have to start another housing bubble to finance the thing hanging on their walls... right?

From Giacometti-Like wire statuettes, to artsy trinkets, to a series of amazing pop-art pieces the size of my whole living room – there's something for every Taste and every Wallet. We may not be totally ready in this economy to splurge on Art yet, but the Artspace Warehouse makes it way more "Erschwinglich" (learn that word, Angelenos)... (affordable, yes... )

Congratulations to the creative entrepreneurial genius of Swiss Galerist Claudia Deutsch, President of the Beverly Hills Women's Club and St.Gallen Alumni.
